This research project is aimed to strengthen rule of law and promote human rights protection in constitutional justice by using interdisciplinary approaches and methods in order to achieve sustainable development in Kyrgyzstan based on the best German experience. The proposed project consists of two stages. In the first stage the project focuses on rule of law and protection of human rights in constitutional justice and has four aims. In the second stage the project has broadens its focus to examine one of the key pillars of rule of law such as access to civil, criminal and administrative justice, as well as developing e-justice in Kyrgyzstan. It will utilize both quantitative and qualitative data collection tools that examine the research project topic in a socio-legal and political context.
